Biography

Crawford Wayne Barton was born on June 2, 1943 in rural Georgia. As a child and teenager Barton took piano lessons and enjoyed drawing and studying nature. After graduating from Calhoun High School in 1961, Barton attended the University of Georgia on an art scholarship. Barton studied drawing painting and sculpture at three different colleges in Georgia as an art major, but never graduated. Late in 1968 Barton decided to move to Los Angeles, CA to study filmmaking at UCLA. However, Barton never enrolled and instead moved to San Francisco. It was in San Francisco that Barton became a leading photographer of gay life. Barton took photographs for the Advocate, the Bay Area Reporter, the San Francisco Examiner, Newsday, and the Los Angeles Times.

In 1974, the M.H. de Young Memorial museum featured Barton's prints in an exhibit called New Photography, San Francisco and the Bay Area. Barton started his own photography business with a resale license in 1973, under the name Arts Unlimited. The business operated through 1978, but was never a profitable endeavor. However, a book of Barton's prints titled Beautiful Men was published in 1976 with a 2nd edition published in 1978. Barton's prints were also used to illustrate Look Back in Joy (1990) by Malcom Boyd. Crawford Barton, Days of Hope, a book of Barton's prints covering the years between the Stonewall riots and the onset of the AIDS epidemic, was published posthumously in 1994. Barton moved away from photography in the early 1980s and devoted his artistic energies to writing. He continued to show his photographs, but did not produce new work at the pace he did in the 1970s. During the 1980s Barton completed his epic novel, Castro Street, and a book of poetry, One More Sweet Smile, but neither was published.

Barton passed away from AIDS on June 12, 1993. He was fifty years old.

Scope and Content of Collection

This collection contains the professional and personal papers of Crawford Barton. This collection includes records from 1945-1995, although the bulk of the collection is from 1961-1990. Barton is best known as a photographer of San Francisco's gay culture in the 1970s. This collection contains numerous photographs, slides and journals from the 1970s. The rest of the collection is primarily from the 1960s and 1980s with some material from the 1970s. It contains correspondence, financial and medical records, clippings, and critical reviews. There is also a significant amount of material related to Castro Street, a novel that Barton wrote and tried to get published through most of the 1980s.

Arrangement

This collection is organized in 7 series:

- Series 1. Correspondence

Series Description

1961-1992

This subseries is the largest in the series. It contains letters, notes, postcards and greeting cards from Barton's friends and family members. The majority of the correspondence is from the 1960s and 1980s. Within his correspondence Barton had a box labeled "Postcards to Moi." All postcards that came from this box have been noted in the folder title. Also included in the subseries are photographs of Barton in his early twenties in folder 415. Third-party correspondence is placed at the end of the series. This subseries is arranged alphabetically. Letters from correspondents not listed individually may be found in "letter" general of each subseries.

Series Description

1979-1992

This subseries contains carbon copies and photocopies of letters Barton wrote to friends. Some original drafts and letters that were never mailed are included. Barton wrote letters almost daily, and kept carbon copies, chronicling his life from 1979-1990. These letters are less personal than a journal might be, but the letters from the mid to late 1980s are descriptive and explanatory of daily life living with AIDS. Because of the generous use of nicknames it is sometimes unclear who a letter is to or who it is about. Correspondence to Barton found in this subseries has been left in its original place. The handwritten carbon copies are difficult to read. Dates are bulk. This subseries is arranged chronologically.

Series 2 Journals 1974-1992

Physical Description: 66 folders

Series Description

This series contains journals and day planners. Included are large and small spiral bound notebooks, composition books, and some traditional day planners. Barton created his own table of contents for the large spiral journals, listing the main subjects on the cover. Types of things in the journals are drafts of letters, lists of new words, ideas for stories or projects, poems, lists of prints, lists of things to do during the day, engagements, and personal musings. This subseries is arranged chronologically.

Series Description

circa 1974-1995

This subseries contains novels, short stories, screenplays, and poetry at all stages of the creative process. Most of the manuscripts are unfinished. There is a large amount of material related to Castro Street, Barton's epic novel about life in the Castro during the raucous 1970s. Its first incarnation as a project was to be a photojournalistic essay, then a screenplay, then a novel. Barton completed the novel, but Part I is not included in the collection. This subseries is arranged alphabetically by title. It is not arranged chronologically according to the creative process within titles.

Series 7 Photographs and Audio Visual Material 1961-1991

Physical Description: 35 boxes, approximately 25 linear feet

Series Description

This series documents Barton's career as a photographer and includes the iconic images he captured as he chronicled gay life in San Francisco in the Seventies and Eighties. The series includes Barton's most famous work, such as his photograph of two gay men kissing on Castro Street. It also documents Barton's personal life in both Georgia and San Francisco. There are a wide variety of media in the series, including albums; black and white and color prints; black and white and color snapshots and Polaroids; black and white and hand-tinted mounted photographs; contact sheets and negatives (35mm and 120mm, black and white and color); photocopies of prints; slides; Super 8mm and 16mm film; and transparencies. This series also includes photographs by other photographers, such as Robert Pruzan and Rink.

Subjects include animals; the Castro Street Fair; Crawford's family, friends and lovers; marches and parades; nature; nudes; Polk Street scenes; portraits of couples, men and women; San Francisco street scenes; and still lives. People Barton photographed include Harry Britt, Imogen Cunningham, Jo Daley, Robert Duncan, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, Jane Fonda, his long-time lover, Larry Lara, Harvey Milk, the Pointer Sisters, Sylvester, Tom Waddell and Paul Winfield. The overwhelming bulk of the materials are prints and other audio-visual material, but researchers should note that there is some personal correspondence and writing in the series.

Most boxes contain one form of media. For instance, there are 2 boxes of Super 8mm and 16mm film, 4 boxes of color and black and white slides and 5 boxes of mounted photographs. The letters on the boxes denote the primary media format contained inside. Boxes labeled with an "F" contain films; boxes labeled with an "N" contain negatives; boxes labeled with a "P" or "PB" contain prints; and boxes labeled with an "S" contain slides. There are, however, a few exceptions, and researchers should note that sometimes several different media can be found in one box. For instance, Photo Boxes 10 and 11 (PB10 and PB11) contain (primarily) black and white contact sheets. Also, Photo Box 15 contains contact sheets, negatives and 5 envelopes, 65 folders and 11 albums of personal snapshots and Polaroids taken by Barton and his friends. Researchers should also note that numerous images appear in various formats throughout the collection.

Slides, snapshots and Polaroids are color unless otherwise noted. Prints are black and white unless otherwise noted.

Barton labeled many of his photographs on the back, and some of the materials in this series may have been used in the books mentioned in his biography: Beautiful Men (1976); Look Back in Joy (1990); and Crawford Barton, Days of Hope (1994). Researchers can refer to those sources to help date the numerous undated materials in the series.

Previous archivists organized the boxes of films, slides, prints, negatives and contact sheets. The folders in these boxes have been arranged alphabetically by subject or photographer name. Numbered negatives have been arranged chronologically. Typically, folders of miscellaneous, unidentified or duplicate materials have been placed at the end. While the films have been numbered to correspond to a list format, they are not in any exact order in the cartons.
