Organizational History

In the largest sense, the AIDS Program at San Francisco General Hospital (SFGH) refers to the totality of AIDS-related activities at the hospital. More commonly, however, the phrase is used to refer to the outpatient AIDS Clinic and a number of short- and long-term research projects loosely connected to it.

The AIDS Program declares that its mission is to:

1. Provide comprehensive, expert and humane care to a population which reflects the demographic and clinical spectrum of HIV disease,
2. Conduct an aggressive research programs that enables us to improve patient care and the duration and quality of our patient's lives, and
3. Share our experience with other health care professionals and the public through our publications and direct educational programs.

Although it is now surmised that people with HIV disease were patients at SFGH as early as 1980, the first documented case, a man with Kaposi's Sarcoma, was identified in June of 1981. During late 1981 and early 1982 the Kaposi's Sarcoma Clinic was formed at UCSF by Paul Volberding and Marcus Conant. Patients were evaluated at UCSF and referred to the Oncology Clinic at SFGH for treatment. Other opportunistic infections in KS patients, primarily pneumocistis pneumonia (PCP), were managed by Constance Wofsy, Acting Chief of Infectious Diseases at SFGH. These components were brought together when the AIDS Clinic was opened on Ward 86 in January of 1983. The inpatient ward at SFGH, Ward 5B, was opened a few months later, in June of 1983.

In July of 1983, Dr. Donald Abrams came to Ward 86 from UCSF. Nurse Practitioners J.B.Molaghan and Gary Carr joined the staff in November of 1983. Volberding, Wofsy (deceased), Abrams, Molaghan and Carr were the nucleus around which the AIDS Program grew. Eventually, other program elements developed out of the AIDS Ward, including numerous research entities, clinical programs, and educational components.

Scope and Content Note

The bulk of administrative records stem from Paul Volberding's office. Volberding, founder of one of the earliest AIDS Clinics and director of a program which has consistently had high media visibility, has been a well-known public figure since 1983. Thus he attracted a large volume of correspondence—from physicians with questions or referrals, Persons with AIDS (PWAs) requesting help, scientists and pharmaceutical companies wanting to collaborate, health care and educational organizations pursuing presentations, students, residents and working physicians seeking jobs or learning experiences, and an array of individuals writing with unsolicited messages. Over one third of the total collection is composed of Volberding's correspondence files. This correspondence begins in 1981 and contains information on numerous subjects. Beyond the documentation of the early history of AIDS and course of the disease, these letters also record the evolution of the clinic, scientific advances in AIDS research and treatment of its sequelae, and a host of social and political issues that materialized. The "Crank Letters" files are a particularly fascinating series that contains letters offering miraculous "cures", strange visions, and hate messages.

Another sizeable series is composed of the correspondence of Dr Constance Wofsy, a well known AIDS practitioner who was one of the first physicians in San Francisco to care for young men with severe immune dysfunction. A handful of her earliest letters pre-date the June 1981 CDC report on the newly recognized syndrome affecting gay men. Additional Wofsy files relate to her lectures, a PCP study group that met at SFGH during the mid 1980s, and the development of Project AWARE, an outreach to women with, or at risk of, HIV infection.

Correspondence from Dr. Donald Abrams can also be found in this record group, as well as administrative records documenting the activities of San Francisco General Hospital's AIDS Ward, such as meeting minutes, contract information, budget and financial information, and other AIDS related materials.

The record group is organized into nine series:

- Correspondence, Dr. Paul Volberding
- Correspondence, Lectures, and Conferences, Dr. Donald Abrams
- Correspondence, Lectures, and Activities, Dr. Constance Wofsy
- Contracts
- Budgets and Finances
- Staff Meetings
- Committees
- SFGH Ward 84 Documents
- Other AIDS Related Documents.

Scope and Content Note

Records of the 6th International Conference on AIDS are included primarily because Volberding, along with UCSF's John Ziegler, was Co-Chair of this Conference, and nearly everyone in the AIDS Program was involved in planning and conducting the conference. The records preserved here document the planning, development, and course of the convention, with particular emphasis on the San Francisco community's involvement and the immigration issue which hung over the entire conference (series 4).

The record group is organized into four series:
