Biography

Hale J. Zukas was born on May 31, 1943 in Los Angeles, California. While attending UC Berkeley in the mid-1960s, he joined the Rolling Quads, a group of severely disabled students in the Cowell Residence Program who had organized themselves to advocate for the rights of students with disabilities. Zukas became one of the founders of the Physically Disabled Students Program (PDSP) on the Berkeley campus, and in 1971, he graduated with a B.A. in mathematics.

In 1972, Zukas and others founded the Center for Independent Living (CIL) in Berkeley. He was CIL's first coordinator of community affairs and remained in that position until 1982. During this time, he became an expert on benefit programs for disabled and elderly people, particularly Supplemental Security Income and In-Home Supportive Services. Zukas also became a leading advocate for the elimination of architectural and transportation barriers, especially on the Bay Area Rapid Transit system in the San Francisco Bay area.

In 1983, Zukas joined the World Institute on Disability (WID) in Oakland, California, as a public policy analyst, later becoming WID's Director of Research. Through his work at WID, Zukas has become an internationally recognized expert on such issues as personal assistance services, accessible mass transportation, the elimination of architectural barriers, and disability-related statistics. Zukas became the vice chair of the U.S. Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board in 1983, where he had been a member of the Standards, Research, and Technical Assistance Committee since 1979.

Zukas consults for several agencies and organizations, including the National Science Foundation and the Federal Highway Administration. He is the author of Attending to America: Report of the National Survey of Attendant Services Programs in the United States(1987), CIL History (1976), and various reports and articles.

Scope and Content

The Hale Zukas Papers, 1971-1998, consist of materials reflecting Zukas's leading role as a founder and activist for the disability rights and independent living movements. The collection includes his papers from the Center for Independent Living, the Disabled Students Program at U.C. Berkeley and other organizations in which he was active, records documenting his advocacy work, and a very small amount of personalia.

Zukas was a founding member of the Center for Independent Living (CIL), the world's first community-based independent living center, established in Berkeley, California in 1972. Especially noteworthy are Zukas's writings about the history of CIL and his working papers, which reflect his influence in shaping many of CIL's programs. Zukas served on CIL's Board of Directors for many years, and his papers include a run of meeting minutes and other information from 1972 to 1987. Zukas's records regarding the Disabled Students Program at U.C. Berkeley are not as extensive, but do include some of its funding proposals and reports. His work in the larger community is reflected in his papers from other organizations ranging from the Bay Area Coalition of the Disabled and Elderly to the White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals.

Some of Zukas's advocacy work is reflected in his papers, including transportation for the disabled and legislative tracking and analysis of HR-1, the Social Security Amendment of 1972.

This collection does not include many records of a personal nature, although it does contain a very small amount of personal correspondence and Zukas's resumé's from early and more recently in his career.

Zukas's papers do not reflect all of his work at the Center for Independent Living, the Disabled Students Program, or some of the other organizations in which he was involved. These papers do not contain documentation of Zukas's work at the World Institute on Disability. They do, however, provide a rare and coherent glimpse into the activism that would create a revolution, and reflect the many levels on which the movement for disability rights has occurred. From the national level to the local level, from transportation barriers to social security income to student services, the organizations and issues represented in these papers record the enormous effort that it has taken in order for people with disabilities to assert their legal and human rights.
