Acquisition Information

The C. Hart Merriam collection of Indian photographs was transferred from the Dept. of Anthropology in 1977.

Scope and Content

The photographs in this collection accompanied a collection of material described by Robert Heizer in his "Catalogue of the C. Hart Merriam Collection of Data Concerning California Tribes and Other American Indians." (This manuscript collection is available on microfilm with call number BANC FILM 1022.) Heizer's guide arranged the photographs by tribe, according to a system devised for the manuscripts. This arrangement is described below. In 1978 Lawrence Dinnean, Pictorial Curator of The Bancroft Library, reviewed the collection, removing numerous duplicate photographs and produced a new listing that followed the general structure of Heizer's guide. Dinnean assigned a collection number and numbered the photographs according to this collection number. The structure of his system was the collection number (1978.008) followed by a group number that corresponded to Heizer's picture number (P1, P2, etc.), followed by an item number. This resulted in catalog numbers like 1978.008.1.1, 1978.008.2.3, etc. This cumbersome system has been dropped in the current finding aid and the pictures are identified solely by Heizer's system (see "Rationale of the Catalog System" below).

Merriam was a good photographer and this collection of his work is an important one. The collection, consisting mostly of prints, is primarily photographs taken during Merriam's work documenting the languages of California Indian tribes. The photographs are mostly of the people and places Merriam encountered in his work. The arrangement by tribe provides unique access to these latter photographs, allowing one to see the locations members of these tribes inhabited.

The collection also contains a number of miscellaneous photographs likely given to Merriam by persons who knew of his interest in Indians. These are largely Alaskan tribes, and a few Southwestern tribes, unidentified people, scenery, tools, and objects. Also included are photographs and other pictorial material (110 items altogether) from the Alaska Harriman Expedition in 1899. Additional photographs of the Expedition can be found in collection number BANC PIC 1980.23.

1,447 photographs of members of Californian tribes have been digitized and made available on the Internet. None of the non-Californian material found in the "Miscellaneous Photographs" portion of the finding aid has been digitized.

Rationale of the Catalog System

In 1966 there was published Heizer, Robert F. Languages, Territories and Names of California Indians. University of California Press, 1966 (vii, 1-62, 5 maps) a list and map of California tribal groups organized by linguistic stock as identified by Dr. Merriam. This classification was used as the basis for the arrangement of the manuscript material and has therefore also been used for the pictorial material. The list is reproduced below for easy reference. Each linguistic stock has been assigned a letter of the alphabet in the order in which it appears in the list; thus, A is for Athapascan, B is for Polikla (Yurok), C is for Soolaheluk (Wiyot) and so on. Tribal groups are numbered in the appended list which is both a classification and a map key. The finding aid has the following format:

A. ATHAPASCAN
1a. Tolowa
Reel	Pic. No.	Vol	Contents

1	P1	1	John Lopez; Hah-wun-kwat village; 22 July 1934; 2 prints, 2 negatives
---	----	---	--

From the above listing one extracts the following catalog number:

- A/1a/P1: Read as Athapascan stock/Tolowa tribe/Picture no. 1

The final element of the classification system (P1, P2, etc.) can refer to either a single photograph or a group of photographs. Reel refers to the microfilm reel where the viewing print can be found. Location refers to the shelf location of the original. All originals are shelved as PIC in volumes unless otherwise indicated.
