Supervisor Kenneth Hahn

Biographical Information

[The following text was prepared by Supervisor Hahn's office in 1988 and remains unchanged.]

Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn was born in Los Angeles and has lived all his life in the area he has now represented for 40 years. He was the youngest of seven boys, brought up by his widowed mother, Hattie Hahn. He attended 61st Street Elementary School, John Muir Junior High School, John C. Fremont High School, Pepperdine University, from which he received a B.A. in Political Science, and the University of Southern California, where he earned a Master's Degree in Education. He served in the United States Navy during World War II, enlisting the day after the attack on Pearl Harbor at the Federal Building at First and Spring Streets and went on to attain the rank of Lieutenant by the time of his discharge in 1946 after serving in the South Pacific. He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

In 1946, Hahn ran for State Assembly as a Democrat, but won the Republican nomination because of cross-filing and failed to be elected to office. In 1947, at the age of 26, he became the youngest person to have ever served on the Los Angeles City Council. He was re-elected to the Council in 1949 and 1951.

Hahn became the youngest man to serve on the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles County when he was elected in November, 1952, at the age of 32. He has been re-elected to the Board for eight consecutive terms by record margins: 1956 - 100%, 1960 - 85.59%, 1964 - 86.68%, 1968 - 68.66%, 1972 - 85.32%, 1976 - 81.25%, 1980 - 87.68%, 1984 - 86.85%. Hahn has served as a Supervisor longer than any person in the history of the County. He has been in office longer than any other county supervisor in California.

As a Los Angeles County Supervisor, Hahn helps govern the largest county in the nation, comprised of 8 million people and 85 cities. He represents the Second District, which is comprised of 1.5 million people, a population greater than 15 states in the union. It includes the cities of Carson, Culver City, Gardena, Hawthorne, Inglewood, Lawndale, Lynwood and a large portion of the City of Los Angeles. Unincorporated communities include Florence-Firestone, Watts-Willowbrook, Lennox, View Park, Ladera Heights, Wiseburn and Athens.

During Hahn's 40 years in public office, he has amassed a unique record of accomplishment. Among them are creation of the paramedic program, the freeway emergency call boxes, authorship of the Proposition A transit measure, construction of the Sports Arena, the bringing of the Dodgers baseball team to Los Angeles from Brooklyn, and the enactment of the state-wide "Rob A Home, Go to Jail" law.

In order to create the paramedics and the call boxes, Hahn had to do battle with much of the Sacramento bureaucracy for several years. Most of the medical establishment opposed the paramedic concept of emergency roadside health care, so Hahn had to get special state legislation passed into law by then-Governor Ronald Reagan to permit a pilot paramedic project in Los Angeles County. The program, which has responded to nearly one million emergency calls, has become a model for hundreds of similar programs across America and was even the inspiration for a successful television series, "Emergency."

The call boxes, which are spaced every quarter mile throughout Los Angeles County's freeway system, was initially opposed by the State Highway Commission. It was necessary for Hahn to seek the personal intervention of then-Governor Edmund G. Brown, Sr., to instruct his Highway Department Director to agree to Hahn's request. Over 6 million calls have been placed on the freeway phone system for problems ranging from flat tires to heart attacks.

In 1980, Hahn authored Proposition A, a county-wide transit measure which was approved by 54% of the voters. This was the first time in history that the citizens of Los Angeles County approved a ballot measure to provide funding for lower bus fares and construction of a regional rail rapid transit system to reduce dependence on the automobile.

Hahn initiated the building of the Sports Arena during his record 30 year tenure on the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Commission. The Sports Arena was built at no cost to taxpayers, becoming the first major indoor sports facility in southern California. As president of the Coliseum Commission, Hahn also helped pave the way for the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles and was part of the official Los Angeles delegation to Athens, Greece, to negotiate for the 1984 Games.

Hahn brought the Dodgers to Los Angeles after putting out feelers to a number of teams in an effort to bring major league baseball to Los Angeles. Walter O'Malley, owner of the Dodgers, responded to Hahn's inquiry and, after Hahn gave a tour of the Los Angeles area, including the Coliseum and Chavez Ravine, O'Malley pledged privately to Hahn that the Dodgers would come for the 1958 season. The Los Angeles Dodgers have gone on to break all attendance records year after year.

Against great odds, Hahn built the Martin Luther King, Jr., General Hospital, naming it after the great civil rights leader, whom he met in 1961, when he was the only elected official to greet King at Los Angeles International Airport. They went on to spend two hours together discussing King's dreams of equal justice for all Americans. Two months after King's assassination, Hahn called Mrs. Coretta Scott King to request her permission to name the hospital after her slain husband. When he called her, Hahn said, "You don't know who I am. . . ." Mrs. King responded, "Oh yes, I do. You were the white politician who was so kind to my Martin in the days when he was being attacked by dogs and beaten by police." Martin Luther King, Jr., General Hospital has treated over 3 million patients.

Among Hahn's many other accomplishments [are] the Hubert Humphrey and H. Claude Hudson Comprehensive Health Centers, the settling of the Los Angeles bus strikes of 1974, 1976 and 1979, his single-handed leadership of the fight against automobile insurance redlining, ending the roadblocks for construction of the Century Freeway, which will be the largest public works project in California, and in the field of recreation, the construction of 18 public swimming pools at parks in the district and the creation of two major regional parks -- Willowbrook State Recreation Area and Baldwin Hills State Recreation Area, which will eventually cover 1,000 acres in the heart of Los Angeles County.

Hahn has been married for 39 years to the former Ramona Fox, whom he met at Pepperdine. They are the parents of Los Angeles City Attorney James Kenneth Hahn and Janice Hahn Baucum and the grandparents of Katy, Danny and Marky Baucum. He has received honorary Doctor of Laws degrees from Pepperdine University and West Los Angeles College of Law.

Local Subject Headings

N.B. Below are some of the non-standard headings used in the body of the inventory in the course of two years of cataloguing by two different people. When searching any subject, whether listed here or not, use all of the obvious forms (including variations in capitalization and singular/plural status) to maximize your chances of finding as large a set of relevant folders as possible. In the body of the folder-level inventory itself, the abbreviations "ls" and "s" mean "local subject entry term" and "standard subject entry term" respectively, although there was a lack of consistency in their application until well into the project.

KENNETH HAHN COLLECTION

Interfiled Photographs

The bulk of the photographs, mostly taken by official Los Angeles County photographers, are kept in the basement of the Huntington Art Gallery in 72 storage cartons. They are arranged chronologically from the 1950s-1992, with several of the boxes at the end containing special subjects, such as Presidential and VIP photos, parks, etc. Most have index numbers that refer to the negatives, still held by Los Angeles County. In addition, there are 4 cartons of photos in the basement of the North Wing, along with 22 shoebox-style cartons containing a card index to the entire run of official photographs.

What follow are the photographs interfiled within the textual portion of the catalogued section of the papers, not including the 76 boxes mentioned above. The processing was done over a span of two years by two separate persons, so style of presentation and detail may vary considerably.
